Your own personal coach and a qualification

Are you interested in having your own coach to help guide you through your internal projects? Then consider doing your CIPD Professional Assessment with us. With our PAC programme you get external coaching support AND a qualification at the end of it! And did you know that the cost of doing your CIPD qualification with DMS equates to having half a day's executive coaching a month? Try looking at that in terms of cost versus value to your business and comparing time out of the office with other CIPD routes and it becomes much easier to justify. The Classic Programme costs from £2950 and typically takes approximately 18 months to complete. The Executive programme can be achieved within 3 months and costs from £4950.

Already CIPD qualified?

If you have already gained full CIPD membership, the Masters programme is an ideal way of undertaking your continuous professional development. The MSc in Strategic Personnel and Development lasts for nine months and covers strategic personnel, organisational change and transition, personnel and development consulting and international perspectives. The next cohort begins in April so if you're interested get in touch straight away to register.

Just starting out in HR?

If you're not quite experienced enough yet for these programmes, the Certificate in Personnel Practice or the Certificate in Training Practice are a great place to get started with your career in HR. They will help to give you a good grasp of all the basics and a qualification to prove it. With a variety of tutored sessions and assignments, this programme can be completed in eight months. This is an ideal solution for organisations who'd like to ensure their HR team understand the key aspects of the personnel or training function and gain Associate membership of the CIPD. This course can run either at your own offices and be tailored to your organisation's needs, or at our training centre in Isleworth if you prefer an off-site solution. We only need eight people to run a course so get a group of you together and get your training underway now!
